On Friday last a windstorm of unusual violence passed over this district. It was almost a cyclone, and did considerable damage in the country, several barns and other outbuildings being demolished. The Calumet school house near Asker was completely wrecked, the building being moved about twenty feet and torn to pieces. Luckily the storm came about an hour after school had been dismissed for the day or there would be casualties to record.

A number of cattle were killed in the east country by the storm.

A son of J. P. McPherson, of Bentley, met with what might have been a very serious accident on Monday afternoon. The youngster, who is about eight years old, was holding a team of horses, when a team behind him ran into the wagon and started them off. The lad hung on to his team for some time, but finally was thrown out, the two wagons passing over him. In some miraculous manner he escaped without any broken bones. He was taken to the Lacombe hospital where his injuries are being attended to.

HOBBS ROUNDED UP

The town police and C. P. R. officials here had an exciting time Thursday while attempting to round up three hobbes who came into town on a freight train. The men were detected while trying to make good their escape from a box car when the train pulled into the station. When they saw that they had been noticed, they turned at bay and kept off the policeman and trainmen with a fusillade of rocks. At last they took to flight down the track. An engine, however, was sent to head them off, and they were finally overtaken and arrested where they lay concealed in a field. They were tried by the local justice of the peace, Caruthers, and sentenced to serve 60, 90 and 30 days respectively in prison. Their names are William Robertson, William Smith and D. Gower.

THE HOSPITAL

The first year of the Lacombe hospital, under the management of Miss Pye, ended on June 30. Throughout the year the hospital has proved a much needed institution. Number of patients treated 104 Number of deaths 5 Number of births 4 Number of operations 45 Number of patients in hospital at June 30, 1911, 3 The above is a pretty good record, and the low percentage of deaths speaks very highly for the efficient work being done by Nurse Pye.

RED DEER STRONG FOR RECIPROcity

Red Deer, July 10.—Blessed by fine weather, the Methodist church here, with a large and appreciative audience this evening to listen to the Hon. Frank Oliver, the Minister of the Interior, discuss the matter of reciprocity. Upon rising, Mr. Oliver was greeted with most hearty applause. In opening, he complimented the town on its growth and he also appreciated the action of the board of the Methodist church in allowing the meeting to be held in the church. The Aim of Reciprocity. He expressed his great regret both for those present and for himself at the absence of Dr. Clark who he felt was a much better voiced speaker with this subject. He pointed out that the purpose and aim of reciprocity was an arrangement to enable the citizens of Canada to buy cheaper goods and that this is the right of every citizen. He could not see why there was anyone opposed to it. It was regrettable that on a subject of this kind people did not vote as they thought but followed the party too closely.

He showed fully the manner in which the farmers of the west were receiving a smaller price in Canada for their wheat and beef than they could receive in the United States and that the opposition were backing up the farmers in fighting this measure. If reciprocity were passed it would enable the Canadian farmers to take better advantage of better prices and Canadian wheat will only go south of the line as long as the United States millers are willing to pay more for it than the Canadian mills. This must benefit the farmers and throughout the prosperity the people and the country as a whole is bettered.

Canada Has Surplus. He showed that with the small acreage under cultivation at the present time Canada has a surplus of grain and with the great yearly increase in cultivation there would be a great surplus of wheat and it was up to the people to secure the best possible market which is the United States, as the wheat growing area is increasing rapidly. He pointed out that the condition of the best market was much the same as that for wheat and could be altered to the betterment of the farmers in the passing of this measure.

He also dealt fully with the manner in which Mr. Borden and his followers had dwelt upon the "favored nation" clause as a reason for voting down this measure and showed clearly wherein their statement would not carry.

World Wide Attention. This reciprocity measure was attracting world-wide attention and is recognized as a step in the progress of the nation. It is up to the individual voters at election time to say whether Canada shall go ahead or back, shall lose or gain. In closing he reviewed the opposition's manner in opposing the bill and showed that they were helping the mergers and trusts who are the chief opponents. His whole defence of reciprocity was delivered in a very clear manner and could not help but turn the most doubtful in its favor. The meeting closed with rousing cheers for Mr. Oliver and the government.

TO DECIDE CASE ONLY ON MERITS

Ottawa, July 10.—Although the department of justice has been deluged with petitions praying for clemency in the case of Angelina Neapolitano, sentenced to death for the murder of her husband at the Canadian Soo, it is learned on good authority that Sir Allen Aylesworth will decide the case on its merits only and will not take into account the physical condition of the unfortunate woman. It is very probable that an examination of the source records by the minister of justice will reveal aspects of the case which will amply justify a commutation of the sentence but the extraordinary interest manifested in the woman's condition will not weigh in the matter at all. The numerous petitions that have been sent to the Capital have provoked unfavorable comment at Ottawa.

$3,600 in Cash Prizes for Farmers
Tell Us How You Did It
You may win a prize by doing so

SUPPOSE your friend Bob Wilson, on the next occasion, "pulled up" at your front gate on the way back from market and asked about that old or barn foundation you built, you would be glad to tell him, wouldn't you? And it wouldn't take you long, either, would it? And, as a matter of fact, you'd find as much pleasure telling him as he would in listening—'n't that right?

First you would take him over to view the old or barn foundation. Then you would start to describe it—its dimensions, the kind of aggregate used—the proportions of cement used—number of bags employed—number of hours' working time required—method of mixing—and of course used—method of reinforcing, if any, and finally, what the job cost. So that by the time you finished, your friend would have a pretty accurate idea of how to go about building the particular piece of work which you described.

Now could you do the same for us, with this difference—that you should a good chance of getting well paid for your time? In one of our contests, open to the farmers of Canada, we offer $100.00 to the farmer in each Province who will furnish us with the best and most complete description of how any particular piece of concrete work shown by photograph sent in was done. The size of the work described makes no difference. The only important thing to remember is that the work must be done in 1911 and "CANADA" cement used.

In writing your description, don't be too particular about grammar or spelling or punctuation. Leave that to literary folk. Tell it to us as you would tell it to your neighbor. What we want are the facts, plainly and clearly told.

Sounds simple, doesn't it? And it is simple. And surely it is well worth your while when you think of the reward in view. Now all right down, take your pen or pencil—fill out the attached coupon—or a post-card if it's handier—and write for the circular which fully describes the conditions of this, the first contest of the kind ever held in Canada.

Every dealer who handles "CANADA" Cement will also be given a supply of these circulars, and you can get one from the dealer in your town, if that seems more convenient than writing for it.

Contest will close on November 15th, 1911—all photos and descriptions must be sent in by that date, to be eligible for one of these prizes. Awards will be made as soon as possible thereafter. The decisions will be made by a disinterested committee, the following gentlemen having consented to act for us as the jury of award: Prof. Peter Gillis, Lecturer in Theory of Construction, University of Toronto; Prof. W. H. Day, Professor of Physics, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph; and Ivan B. Macdonald, Editor of "Construction."

Having decided to compete for one of the prizes, your first step should be to get the information you can on the subject of Concrete Construction on the Farm. Fortunately, most of the pointers that anyone can possibly need, are contained in our wonderfully complete book, entitled "What the Farmer Can Do With Concrete." A large number of Canadian farmers have already sent for and obtained copies of this free book. Have you got your copy yet? If not, you'd better send for one to-day. Whether you are a contestant for one of our prizes or not, you really ought to have this book in your library. For it contains a vast amount of information and hints that are invaluable to the farmer.

Please send full particulars and book.

DISTRICT NEWS

MEADOW BROOK AND WOLFVILLE

The angel of death has been among us here and claimed Nellie, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Taylor. After a trying sickness she entered into rest on Thursday last at 12 o'clock noon, and was buried on Friday at Bismark cemetery. Despite the inclemency of the weather, several friends from Meadowbrook and Lochinvar travelled back to Maple Farm, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ullsman, where the mourners had gathered. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. K. O. who spoke from the words "It is Well With the Child" Kings, 2:26. The hymns sung included "We Shall Meet to Part—No Never," and others appropriate to the service. After refreshments had been served to the friends from a distance, the beautiful little coffin was reverently carried out and the cortege made its way through a pretty strip of country to the burying ground on the hill beside the German church. It had rained incessantly all the day and the gloomy weather seemed in harmony with the solemnity of the occasion. The little flowers on the wayside seemed to hang their heads in sympathy with the little friend who had been transplanted to the Heavenly Garden. Arrived at the cemetery the elements too, seemed in sympathy for then, and only then, did they hush their tumult. After the prayer of consecration was offered, the last solemn rites were performed, and dust returned to dust till the day dawned and the shadows flee away.

The school vacation began in Meadowbrook on July 3rd and will continue until August 1st; thereafter school will be resumed until the end of the year.

In Wolfville, Miss Devereux, whose original term expires at the end of September, has been engaged for the remainder of the year, her salary to run at the rate of $720. This announcement has caused quite a flutter in the dove cotte here. Between ourselves, I think I can legitimately claim a modicum of thanks for this happy announcement. Please don't misunderstand me; no art of mine has induced Miss Devereux to wait, but perhaps the hint I gave, in these notes has stirred the Valley of Dry—I mean the School Board. I find when on this subject my pen will run away with me, and this reminds me that I heard rumors of a second indignation meeting. It appears that the good people of Lochinvar resent the imputation that they are shallow. Now I am not running away, but I am sure the Lochinvar people don't need a surgical operation to see the joke here, yet I ask them to remember I did not say they were shallow. Indeed, if it will smooth matters over, I may say that my own private opinion is that they are deep—very deep.

What at first seemed to be a calamity, happened last Wednesday when Mr. Malys's little girl, Opal, was kicked by a horse in the barnyard and rendered unconscious. Happily her father was at home, and doctor Bell, from Ponoka, was immediately on the scene, and with the ready presence of mind of her mother, and the help of their neighbors, the little girl was brought round, and the doctor pronounced the blow to be not so serious as was at first supposed. We are thankful to know she is running around again.

Messrs. G. Barclay and F. Wooster are home for a short spell. Mr. Earl Edward's sister is visiting him just now. Mr. Babcock will remove to Mr. Converse's place at the lake this month.

Mr. Jinks is slightly better. Mrs. B. Heath is still in attendance. Mr. W. Riley has gone back 40 miles west to do some breaking he has contracted for. Mr. Bullock is making preparations for his new house. When they get inside they will be able to look down on the rest of the community.

Mr. Reynolds and Mr. Kug Ogilvie are home again from their respective jobs. Last Sunday, in the German church Mr. Orman was married to Mrs. Cecil Bismark.

Everyone here is delighted with the harvest prospect this year. The country here is carpeted with a rich crop of straw berries just now. Two Irish Evangelists are at present conducting meetings in Meadowbrook School. Mr. Frank Riley has been unkind enough to himself to break one of his ribs, at least one of his steers has been obtained glad to learn, however, he is almost himself again.

A WISE MOVE

The declaration of the conference of the Alberta Mayors in favor of the adoption of the single tax was wise and if properly applied would greatly assist in the growth of the cities along the lines of building development.

At the present the law fixes the man who puts his surplus savings into building improvements and undoubtedly the means of heavy taxes not only prevents many from building, but seriously limits the plans for many buildings that are erected. The experience of cities which have gone a generous distance in the direction of single tax has been most beneficial.

Vancouver particularly furnishes an encouraging example. Calgary is making a big success of its civic utilities and in the not distant future, the street railway and other enterprises should pay a handsome dividend to be applied to the general needs of the city and the consequent relief of the taxpayer.

With this guarantee in sight there shouldn't be much hesitation in a gradual adjustment of the assessment so as to remove the tax off improvements and assess land at the valuation placed on it by the owner. Soon the vacant lots would be ornamented with buildings and men with money would be anxious to acquire the buildings which would prove of substantial value to the city.

The single tax encourages building and it discourages the holding of land for purely speculative purposes and to the greedy looking to one's neighbors to make the improvements which would increase the value of adjoining properties it is a discouragement.

BORDEN'S SINCERITY

It is the right of every man to resent the imputation of insincerity, and it is not to be wondered at that R. L. Borden should become warm when it was suggested that he and his party are insincere in their opposition to reciprocity.

Borden's misfortune that his party is so closely bound up with the corporate interests of the country that the views of these become the views of the party. When Hon. W. S. Fielding announced the terms of the agreement it did not take long for these financial interests to give Mr. Borden their views on the subject, and it would only be natural to suppose that Mr. Borden gave them a sympathetic hearing. It would not be altogether fair to say that Mr. Borden had his eye on the big campaign, for these interests would supply the party organization when he told them that his own ideas on reciprocity coincided with theirs. It is true that farmers and workmen do not contribute so largely to the party funds as do these interests. But it is fairer to assume that Mr. Borden thought that Sir John A. Macdonald was wrong when he favored the same measure of reciprocity secured under this agreement, and that he believed that the party should hold to the policy of protection and high tariff with no exceptions, not even the exception that the party was previously prepared to make in favor of reciprocity with the United States in natural products.

Politically Mr. Borden has been nursed and nurtured in an atmosphere provided by the interests, and his political food has been of their manufacture and incidentally his political sinews have been provided from the same source. It is therefore not to be wondered at that he feels as they feel, thinks as they think, and acts as they would have him act.

GREAT BRITAIN TO CONCEDE WOMAN SUFFRAGE

Great Britain, that slow old land which moves so slowly and so rapidly than some overseas Dominions which imagine themselves to be the last word in democracy, is about to confer the suffrage upon women. This must be the result of Mr. Asquith's undertaking to give facilities, at the next session of parliament, for the passing of what is known as the conciliation bill. This pledge, which is contained in a letter from the Prime Minister to Lord Lytton, binds the government to permit sufficient time to pass the measure, the resort to closure to be permitted if the necessity arises. This bill was drafted in the first instance by a body known as the Conciliation Committee, consisting of men and women organized to promote a bill which all the women's franchise originally introduced into the session of 1910 by Mr. Shackleton, the Labor Leader, who described it as a bill "to extend the parliamentary franchise to women." Mr. Shackleton explained that the bill would endow women household ers with the vote if they inhabited any house or part of a house even a single room, however low its value, provided the occupier had full control of the premises and occupied, women occupying offices, etc., valued at £10, women living together as joint occupiers, provided the house was worth £10 to each occupier; and married women in cases where a woman and her husband were not both registered in respect of the same house. There was a great deal of cross-speaking as well as voting; some ministers were for, others against the bill; Mr. Balfour was for the bill; Mr. Asquith Chamberlain was opposed. Mr. Lloyd George, while in favor of women suffrage, would not support the bill, which he considered so badly drafted as to be incapable of amendment. The result was, however, that the amendment to reject the bill was rejected by 299 to 180; but the house then voted to commit the bill to a Committee of the whole house, which shelled it for the session.

Mr. Asquith's letter, marking the virtual triumph of the suffrage movement, was published on the day of the monster parade of the women suffrage societies through the streets of London. Originated and directed by the militant Women's Social and Political Union, it was attended, not only by the militant Women's Freedom League, and the Women's Political Union for Women Suffrage, but by all the more peaceful and constitutional bodies, such as the Women Graduates, the Women Writers and Women Actors, Nurses, the various Church Leagues, the Men's League, and above all, the National Union, which paraded in immense numbers, and was led by Mrs. Henry Fawcett herself, her sister, Dr. Garrett Anderson, marching with the great detachment of Doctors of Medicine. Mrs. Pankhurst and Miss Christabel Pankhurst were at the head of the whole procession, which for many beautiful and triumphant pages as it marched from the Embankment to the Albert Hall. The march lasted four hours, and included between 40,000 and 50,000 women, inspired by one demand.

Of the passage of the bill through the Commons there is now no question. It has twice already received its second reading in the House of Commons by large majorities, but has failed to secure its passage owing to the refusal of the Government to "provide facilities" that is to allow it sufficient time to pass through its successive stages. It is said that there are not more than eighty members of the House of Commons who are opposed on principle to the measure.

The bill will, it is estimated, enfranchise one million women, a majority of whom will be the working class. There is a strong sentiment in the Liberal ranks in favor of widening its provisions to include not merely the women householders who are rich or poor, an independent economic unit, but also the mass of married women, who are not in their own right rate-payers, but it is feared that amendments of this nature might shipwreck the bill. What will happen, in all probability, is that the conciliation bill will go on the statute book next year, affirming the principle of Woman Suffrage, and that the electoral Reform bill, which is on the Government's program for introduction at the third session of this parliament, will re-define the household qualification in such a way as to place every adult member of a household on an equality with the responsible householder. This will provide for adult female suffrage.

The women of England are securing the franchise because a sufficient number of them want it. No government could withstand the pressure which was applied. The same results will come to Canada when the same conditions arise. There is no indication in any part of Canada, of any general demand at present for votes for women, but when Great Britain adopts female suffrage a great impetus will be given the movement here.

ALBERTA'S GREAT OIL RESOURCES

The perusal of blueprints is not commonly an exhilarating form of recreation, but to the eye of the prospector, or capital in search of new fields for exploitation, the tale of the Northern El Dorado, with its disclosure of the nature of Alberta's substrata, of the wealth hidden for the centuries and only now being made accessible to humanity, must appeal with compelling force.

Under the caption of "Oil Prospects for Alberta," the geology of the northwest provinces is dealt with, the report of D. E. Dowling, upon the coal fields of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, being extensively quoted, and the nature of the strata underlying central and northern Alberta is dealt with at length.

"The Cretaceous rocks which underlie almost the whole of Alberta," the report reads, "have at their base, number, were exposed on the plains, the Dakota sandstone, a porous rock and a suitable reservoir for oil. It, in turn, along its exposed (northern and eastern) borders at least, rests upon the Devonian, and is overlaid by shales that would form an impervious cover which might retain any oil that found its way into the Dakota sands."

"Dakota sands," so called because this deposit is to be found in the Dakotas. It is found above the coal-bearing sandstone, on the Athabasca river.

Oil and Tar. Petroleum, natural gas tar sands, are among the valuable commercial deposits with which the Dakota sands are charged. "They are exposed," reads the report, "along the Athabasca river and elsewhere in the north, where they are charged with tar to the extent of 12 per cent. of the whole mass. The tar represents the residuum which has escaped to the air along the exposed edges of the rocks. Natural gas and petroleum are still escaping."

Thousand Miles of Tar Sand. In the course of the report the opinion of McConnell, an eminent geologist who carried on investigations in the north, is given to the effect that "the area of tar sands seen by him amounts to 1000 square miles, with an estimated thickness of 150 feet would give 28.4 cubic miles of tar sands, or 6.5 cubic miles of tar, equal to 4,700,000,000 tons of bitumen. Of course the tar sands have not been fully explored. A large amount of oil has escaped, but is altogether improbable that this process has gone on indefinitely and that all has been drained off, for the hardening of the oil to tar effectively seals the openings for escape, and only the area near the exposed edges is likely to have lost its oil content. That the distribution of oil is probably extensive, is indicated by the finding of tar in sands near the surface, far to the south, in the Edmonton country, apparently formed by the limited escape of oil from minor fractures in the rocks."

North West Place for Tests. It is in the north where the covering over the Dakota sands is thin, that the best place for testing occurs. "The geologic survey put down seven test holes, one at Victoria, and one at Athabasca Landing, and one at Pelican Rapids. The latter represented the best judgment of the survey as to the location of a test hole. The top of the sand, about 1800 feet deep, failed to reach the Dakota sandstone owing to the great thickness of the cover at these points. Further north, the Pelican well, at a depth of about 300 feet, reached the top of the Dakota sandstone, struck a tremendous flow of gas. Pushed twenty feet further, it struck another heavy gas vein and some oil. Escaping gas froze the oil on the drilling tool and prevented further progress, so that the Dakota sandstone was not proved as to its containing commercial reservoirs of oil. None of the wells sunk about Medicine Hat, Edmonton or Calgary, have penetrated deep enough to test the possibilities. The two Calgary wells, sunk to 3,400 feet each, were still considerably above the Dakota, and separated from it by impervious shales, but have the upper Cretaceous rocks are exceptionally thick.

"Near Edmonton, the thickness of the rocks above the Dakota is not definitely known, but it is probably considerably over 2,500 feet. At the holes at Athabasca Landing and Victoria, 1,800 feet deep, did not penetrate to the Dakota, and at both these points the thickness of the overlying formations is less than at Edmonton. In the vicinity of the Pelican Rapids hole about 1,000 feet to depth is required. On the Athabasca natural gas is escaping along the river banks. In the Pelican Rapids well, about 180 miles north of Edmonton, an enormous flow of gas encountered at the top of the Dakota. Immense Tar Fields. "The presence of immense tar fields along the outcropping edges of the Dakota in the north, the occurrence near Egg Lake and other points near Edmonton, of tar sands which seem to have been formed by oil escaping from fissures, and the heavy veins of gas encountered by boring in northern Alberta, warrant the belief that good oil fields may be found. The best points to prospect would appear to be in the north at about latitude of Pelican Rapids where test holes would not have to be deep, and where the Dakota sand is known to have large supplies of oil. The proposed railway to Ft. McMurray would render this district accessible."

Kootenay Coal in Northern Alberta. A basin of Kootenay coal-bearing rocks occurs in the latitude of Smoky and Muskeg rivers, north of the Grand Trunk Pacific railway, according to the report. This is the coal formation which carries the high grade bituminous and anthracite coals of the Crow's Nest pass and Bow River Valley, and it is important to find it extending so far north. The points from which samples were obtained are in the neighborhood of lots 3 and 4, Township 57, Range 7.

News From Ottawa.

OTTAWA, July 9.—While Mr. Borden has been in the West, seeking to placate the farmers of that growing country for their opposition to tariff relief for them through reciprocal trade with the United States by declarations in favor of other forms they had asked for, his lieutenants in the East have been equally busy assuring the easterners, particularly in the manufacturing districts, that the party will adhere to the ultra-Conservative policy heretofore championed by them, and that there is no danger of any radical projects being really carried out by Mr. Borden should he attain power.

For instance, the North Ontario Conservative association, at Uxbridge this week, Major Samuel Sharpe, M.P., was re-nominated as the federal candidate. In view of the fact that Major J. A. Currie, M.P., informed the convention that, when Mr. Borden secured the reins of office, "high dignitaries and honors" were in store for Mr. Sharpe, the comments of that gentleman have special significance. And this is what Mr. Sharpe told the easterners. He declared that Mr. Borden would not be "stampeded" by the West into deserting any of the traditions of the Conservative party. He assailed the British Government and the Canadian Government, both of which have been recently seeking through legislation to materially better the lot of the people, and declared: "If we had had the United Kingdom in Britain with Mr. Chamberlain in charge, and a Conservative Government at Ottawa, with Mr. Borden in charge, we would have got rid of this free trade idea long ago, and have adopted a system of imperial federation by now."

There was another significant feature of this Conservative convention which did much to expose the insincerity of the anti-free trade idea long ago, and have adopted a system of imperial federation by now. The latter represented the best judgment of the survey as to the location of a test hole. The top of the sand, about 1800 feet deep, failed to reach the Dakota sandstone owing to the great thickness of the cover at these points. Further north, the Pelican well, at a depth of about 300 feet, reached the top of the Dakota sandstone, struck a tremendous flow of gas. Pushed twenty feet further, it struck another heavy gas vein and some oil. Escaping gas froze the oil on the drilling tool and prevented further progress, so that the Dakota sandstone was not proved as to its containing commercial reservoirs of oil. None of the wells sunk about Medicine Hat, Edmonton or Calgary, have penetrated deep enough to test the possibilities. The two Calgary wells, sunk to 3,400 feet each, were still considerably above the Dakota, and separated from it by impervious shales, but have the upper Cretaceous rocks are exceptionally thick.

"Near Edmonton, the thickness of the rocks above the Dakota is not definitely known, but it is probably considerably over 2,500 feet. "We will continue to observe the whole thing, and fight till the last ditch, when the house meets again in July."

In spite of the tactics adopted to defeat it, public sentiment in favor of the Government policy of tariff relief is growing steadily, in the east as well as in the west. The national patriotism of the east recalls the efforts made by the anti-reciprocity interests to set one part of Canada against the other. The uplands to the east not to be defeated by the west, have met with poor response. The eastern farmers and artisans have not been deceived by it. They recognize that it is the subterfuge of selfish monied interests concerned only in looking after themselves. They realize that the policy first advanced by the great west, and made possible by the successful negotiations of Hon. Messrs. Fielding and Patterson at Washington, is not a sectional policy, but one calculated to contribute greatly to the increased prosperity of the whole country, and particularly of the great masses of the people. They note that the opposition to the east comes almost solely from the wealthy corporations, and the disclosures on oath at the American Senate investigation, where it was shown that the United States trust were financing the anti-reciprocity campaign, have done much to remove the mask of these interests. In all the eastern provinces enthusiastic meetings of farmers and artisans have been held, enthusiastically endorsing the Government's proposals. Hon. A. G. MacKay, addressing a big mass meeting at Watford this week, was greeted with a pandemonium of applause when, as an answer to the defection of eight-een Liberals of the Millionaire class in Toronto, he declared that never in his life had the Liberal flag meant as much to him as it did now, leading the battle for free trade in natural products.

POLITICS AND PRICES

(Farm and Ranch Review) Discussion of reciprocity pact goes wearily on. The partisan political papers are getting plenty of practice at debate on the subject. But in face of what may be considered conclusive argument some very contrary things happen. Take for instance, the main points of argument against the arrangement, namely, that the carrying of wheat by rail to the American coast and that the Canadian transcontinentals will become simply two streaks of rust and a right of way. This looks to many as fearfully imminent, yet C. P. R. stock has advanced to lead all other industrials on the money markets. The C. N. R. declare they will spend $30,000,000 in Western Canada this year, and construction work on the G. T. P. does not abate one iota.

From many quarters it is asserted that the free exchange of fruit with the United States will mean that the fruit ranchers of British Columbia will be reduced to virtual paupers, that the ranchers will become disappointed, that in place of the peach tree will grow up the pine and in the rows of apple trees will grow up the alderberry, yet British Columbia fruit lands are no cheaper to buy, old customers of the British Columbia shippers are just as ready with orders, and beyond it all the market that has made Hooch River Valley the wonder, admiration and envy of the fruit growers of the United States, and yawning for the produce of the Kootenay, Columbia and Okanagan Valleys.

In the live stock and meat trade the same contradictory conditions exist. Producers have not kept pace with the present demand because of the low prices that have existed in the past, and now the whole population of Western Canada is short of meat, which demand is being largely supplied with Chicago products, yet it is claimed the higher prices that Chicago will pay and which incidentally will restore production, will remove the supplies of the Canadian packer. In other words, the packer will be forced to follow at the heels of the Chicago packer and will not be sufficient advantage to the Canadian packer. At the same time our enterprising packers are not hesitating to carry out extensions in every branch of their business.

Isn't it reasonable that we should consider our commercial and economic conditions more stable? It is very easy for a man who starts off with an idea to follow it up and so intensify that he becomes hysterical. Let us consider our commercial and economic conditions more stable. It is very easy for a man who starts off with an idea to follow it up and so intensify that he becomes hysterical.

HON. FRANK OLIVER'S CAMPAIGN

Toronto Globe.
The Minister of the Interior known as the West, is no other man known in it. He went to Edmonton to live when the Capital of Alberta was little more than a Hudson Bay Company post, and it has been his home ever since, except for his sojourns in Ottawa. He has been a journalist ever since he began publishing the Bulletin soon after he went west. His Parliamentary career has extended continuously from 1883, when he became a member of the Northwest Council, almost a generation ago. Since 1896 he has been a member of the Dominion House of Commons, and since 1906 he has been Minister of the Interior. All his public life Mr. Oliver has been unswervingly and intelligently active. He has developed, not merely with the West but in close touch with the country in all its material and sociological interests. He has found or made opportunities innumerable for studying it of close range in all its stages and aspects.

When Mr. Oliver predicts that the Laurier Government, of which he is a member, will merely carry the West, but increase its majority there, it may be taken for granted that his forecast is well founded. It is not in his nature to deceive himself in such a matter, and he has no motive for deceiving other people, especially his own party associates. He has been for some time holding public meetings in the more important centres of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta for the purpose of discussing the reciprocity agreement, and he will continue the work until the resumption of the Parliamentary session makes it necessary that he should return to Ottawa. His tour differs from that of Mr. Borden in two important respects: he knows the country and the people as the Opposition leader does not and can not know them, and he is not rushed from place to place in a "whirlwind" campaign. He takes time to meet the people who are his fellow citizens; he understands their point of view, which is also his own; he knows how their life work is affected by tariffs and transportation, for he has gone through all their experience with them; and he understands, as Mr. Borden cannot do, just how in minute detail the industrial development of the West would be promoted indefinitely by putting the agreement into operation. Time will soon show which suits best the free life and broad outlook of the West: the restrictive policy of the leader of Opposition, or the breezy and invincible optimism of the Minister of the Interior.

SELLS-FLOTO CIRCUS

When we come to consider features which have contributed to the remarkable history of great amusement enterprises, we can not possibly overlook the Sells-Floto Circus and its management.

For years this remarkable institution has had on the most up-hill and drastic fights ever visited upon any aggregation endeavoring to gain a foot hold. But last season they commenced a campaign which took for its text the doctrine of popular prices, and although most of the old time circus people voiced their opinion that they could not possibly succeed, it is now admitted that they came home at the close of the regular season with more money in their treasury than any other attraction in the same line of business.

"People demand popular prices today," said Mr. Roddy, who is here representing the proprietors of the big show. "We are living in an era when the average man or woman can weigh the value of what is offered to them almost as well as those who are most intimately connected with the business, and it was simply a proposition with our people to give them what they wanted. We tried the experiment and found that we were correct."

"The price of 25 cents for general admission has come to stay as far as the Sells-Floto circus is concerned. I do not know what other shows intend doing, because even yet there are very few believers in our methods. It is hard to convince the average man in the show business that it is possible to make any money at that price when there has to be a $3000 on the debit side of the ledger for each day's performance. Last year we were eminently successful and we expect history to repeat itself through the coming season."

HEROIC DEED SAVED CANADA CENTURY AGO

Upon the heroic sod of Queens Ion Heights, overlooking the Niagara River, where General Sir Isaac Brock drove back the American invaders a hundred years ago, there is to be unveiled shortly a handsome monument erected by the Dominion Government in honor of Laura Secord, one of the most conspicuous heroines of Canadian history. The unveiling is to be made the occasion of interest ing ceremonies, which will include addresses by Sir George Ross, Mr. J. W. Langmuir, chairman of the Niagara Falls Park commission, and others.

Laura Ingersoll Secord, in commemoration of whose deed of devotion and daring the monument has been erected, lived with her husband near Niagara-on-the-Lake, the ancient capital of Upper Canada. In the war of 1812 her husband took up arms to protect his home and country. Wounded in the battle, he was taken to his home to be nursed by his devoted wife.

One day two American officers called at the Secord home and demanded food. While serving them, Mrs. Secord caught a few words of their conversation, which satisfied her that the Americans contemplated a surprise attack on the British army which was stationed in the vicinity of Beaver Dams.

Under cover of darkness, the woman started on a perilous trip to warn the British, making the long journey through dense woods beset with wild animals, Indians and guerrilla bands. She had to travel 22 miles, and one of her dangers was in getting under the American lines. She was stopped several times by American soldiers, but she told them she was looking for a lost cow and they permitted her to pass.

She succeeded in reaching Captain Fitzgibbons, one of the British commanders, and conveyed to him the important information. Being thus warned of the proposed attack, the British army was prepared and consequently were enabled to win the important Victory of Beaver Dams, July 24, 1813.

The monument to be unveiled is in the form of a granite pillar, about 12 feet high, and is located close to the memorial to Sir Isaac Brock. On one side of the memorial is inserted a bronze medallion of Laura Secord, with inscription, and on the opposite side appears a record of the death of her husband.

Above the medallion is carved the following inscription: "This monument has been erected by the Government of Canada to Laura Ingersoll Secord, who saved her husband's life in the battle on these Heights, October 13, 1812, and who risked her own in conveying to Captain Fitzgibbons the information by which he won the victory of Beaver Dam, July 24, 1813."

For summer diarrhoea in children always give Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and see it, as to the cause of the mysterious effect, but because it had become a parable to my own mind at least. For surely that in the daylight of life we love to think upon the pattern of the human Christ, His incarnation, His wonderful love, His martyrdom and tenderness. But step into the valley of the shadow, and let darkness wrap you round, and it is Christ on the Cross to whom you turn, the one who paid the price for you, who struck off your fetters, who tells you that henceforth you are no slave, who having borne all griefs can dissolve yours.

A Message of the Redeemed.
The 'Whole' family in heaven and earth, not the two families, nor the divided family, but the whole family in heaven and earth. It appears, at first sight as if we were actually divided by the hand of death. Can it be that we are one family when some of us labor on, and others sleep beneath the greenward?

OUR SUNDAY COLUMN

On Taking Splinters Out—Text Luke, 6, 42.
The Matter of Fact World looks on to see how we Christians live. Sometimes the world is wrong in its estimate of Christian character—Some times the World is right.

At any rate the world is not wrong in demanding that those who teach that men ought to be pure, must themselves have pure eyes. The Lord Himself lays it down as a necessary qualification for those who would be instrumental in removing the splinters from their neighbors' eyes, that from their own eyes the beam shall have been removed.

"Man Know Thyself" is good philosophy and good theology too. The inconsistency of many professing Christians, as the greatest drawback to the advancement of the Kingdom. The record of brave deeds, intense loyalty, and obedience to orders, auger well for the success of an army. Cowardice, disaffection and disobedience are a spell disaster for an army.

Two soldiers, a grey haired sergeant and a recruit, stood on a railway station. The recruit behaved unseemly; the sergeant was heard to whisper in his ear: "Don't be a fool, remember you are a Scotsman." The apostolic precept is quite in point: "Walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called." It is evident to any observer that large numbers of people in the world to-day have splinters in their eyes. The vision is blurred, and distorted. The import, work, problems and pleasures of life are seen out of the perspective.

The more weighty things appear trivial; the more trivial things appear weighty. Christ came to give sight to the blind; to restore to man the true vision of God and man, of Sainthood and sin. He commands the co-operation of his followers in the taking away of the foreign substance. It becomes the Christian's duty, humbly and tenderly to assist in the correcting of others' faults.

Those only can the Master use who are in penitence at His feet have sought for themselves clean hearts and pure eyes. "Cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull the mote (splinter) that is in thy brother's eye."

A recent writer, a preacher of note says:
"A few days ago I stood in a picture gallery, looking at the figure of Our Master painted by a Canadian artist; a simple figure of Christ, with clouds behind and over His head, and the desert stones behind His unshod feet. These suddenly the room was completely darkened, and as we sat looking towards the picture, let the whole of the background of the painting was luminous, and these shod feet, even in the darkness of the room, the figure of Christ, with one striking detail added, the cross upon his shoulder. And we stood there in awe and reverence, not so much in curiosity as to the cause of the mysterious effect, but because it had become a parable to my own mind at least. For surely that in the daylight of life we love to think upon the pattern of the human Christ, His incarnation, His wonderful love, His martyrdom and tenderness. But step into the valley of the shadow, and let darkness wrap you round, and it is Christ on the Cross to whom you turn, the one who paid the price for you, who struck off your fetters, who tells you that henceforth you are no slave, who having borne all griefs can dissolve yours."

HOW LIKE CANADA

Here is an article from the Nebraska farmer, showing his opinion in the States:
"There is only one reason for Canadian reciprocity, and that is to get farmers to seeing the tariff question straight—To get them to see that the tariff on agricultural products is inoperative. Then they will be in a position to attack the special privilege enjoyed by our mighty trusts behind the tariff wall. There is really no other ground on which to stand while supporting this reciprocity measure."

The American trusts are fighting reciprocity with the same determination as our Canadian combines and mergers. Why? They see the whole chit of protection in danger.

MUSLINS

THEY MUST GO

While every line in colored muslins is being reduced to clear, we would draw special attention to 10 pieces at 5c per yd. which are sensational values.

HOLIDAYING ON SUNDAY

Recently Montreal had a fatal accident in King Edward Park, of which members of a Sunday excursion party were the victims. "That's what comes from Sunday excursions," some of the good people of Montreal remarked, and in this connection the Witness remarks that it tends to show how persistently the theory of Job's friends continues to live—that misfortune is a sure proof of guilt. "Remember, I pray thee, whoever perished being innocent or where were the righteous cut off? The light of the wicked shall be put out and the spark of his fire shall not shine. The gin shall take him by the heel and the robber shall prevail against him. The snare is laid for him in the ground, and a trap for him in the way." The author of "Job" shows how utterly untenable all this is, and our Savior showed explicitly that the 18 upon whom the tower of Siloam fell and slew were not sinners above all who dwell in Jerusalem; and that the Galileans, whom Pilate had slain among their sacrifices, were not, by that, proved to be sinners above all the Galileans. The punishment that falls upon those who violate God's laws of nature or of grace are not arbitrary judgments. They are not like the vengeance which an eastern sultan might take upon those who had offended against his decrees. We are coming by degrees to juster ideas. We see people cut down in the path of duty as well as in the path of pleasure. We see disaster overtake those who are compelled to minister the feverish demand for excitement. Sunday accidents are common, not because they are arbitrary judgments of an offended God, but because human nature requires at least one day's rest in seven, because the Sunday crowd is usually feverish and excitable, and because those who help to provide the pleasure have already been driven beyond endurance. Certainly no pains should be spared in seeing that all places where crowds congregate are inspected properly. Newspapers and citizens should hammer at this continually until proper action is taken.

But no matter how we may palliate and excuse, most of us day will see the sheriff come to close the whole blamed works. Go, turn the hose on all those clerks, and clean your diabolical point, and when you ask me for my trade I will not say "Arroint!"

THE UNTIDY STORE

The grocer chased me up and down, in sunshine and in shade; he knew I always paid my bills, and yearned to get my trade. He hounded me and pestered me by every human means, until at last I sought his store to buy some boneless beans. He had some mouldy looking clerks, who loitered around the store, and combed their whiskers with their hands, and watched the clock and swore. The floor was littered up with jugs and boxes, crates and kegs, containing uninviting fruit, and prehistoric eggs. The floor itself had not been swept since Noah bosomed the ark; the windows of the dreary joint, with grime and dirt were dark. I took the grocer by the hand and led him to the street, and said, "Some friend should push you down and pat you with his feet. A man who runs a grimy store that's full of grimy clerks some day will see the sheriff come to close the whole blamed works. Go, turn the hose on all those clerks, and clean your diabolical point, and when you ask me for my trade I will not say "Arroint!"

HEROISM OF GIRL SAVES SIX LIVES

SAULT STE MARIE, Mich., July 10.—Three persons lost their lives and 33 others had hair-breadth escapes from death today when the Steamer John Mitchell, of Chicago, sank in Lake Superior. The Mitchell was rescued by her fellow passengers in the small boat.

Girl Cool in Peril
Second Mate, Archie Casady, Steward A. L. Clemens, and crew of the Mack to throw them

watchman, George Austin, of a line, and fastened it to the opposite side of the boat in such a way that the Mack crew, by pulling on the line, were able to pull the yawl right side up, and it was believed they are drowned. Besides her crew of 27, the Mitchell carried the wife and daughter of Steward Clemens, and seven passengers from Cleveland. Mrs. Wm. Grant, Miss Albert Grant, Mrs. S. O. Smith, Mrs. A. A. Willcutt, Mrs. A. B. Grant, Miss Clara Bundschuh, and Master Grant.

ALL THE passengers and most of the crew of the Mitchell clung to the deck of the Mack by means of a ladder from the stern of the Mitchell, most of them escaping in their night clothes and losing their personal effects. Three men and three women, however, left the Mitchell in a yawl, which soon capsized, and Miss Fay Clemens, daughter of the lost steward, proved herself a heroine in the rescue of her fellow passengers in the small boat.
